

INDIGENOUS PEOPLES' DAY & GLOBAL-LOCAL STRUGGLES FOR DIGNITY & HUMAN RIGHTS

Monday October 12, 7pm
University of Pittsburgh
4130 Posvar Hall (on Schenley Plaza)

- Learn about the origins of Indigenous Peoples' Day and its connections to global indigenous movements and broader activist alliances working for social justice and human rights
- Explore how ideas that originated in global discussions have shaped local struggles here and elsewhere in the United States
- Miguel Sague, Head Spiritual Leader of Caney Indian Spiritual Circle & Medicine Man for the Council of Three Rivers American Indian Center
- Russell Simms, Executive Director, Council of Three Rivers American Indian Center

Sponsored by the Global Studies Center, the Native American Student Organization, and the Sociology Department of the University of Pittsburgh, in cooperation with the Pittsburgh Human Rights City Alliance